California '95-96!

During the Christmas holidays, eleven members of the senior girls' basketball team, as well as Mr. and Mrs. Patel and Mr. Sarsfield, headed to the warm climate of California for the first-ever girls' tour.

The tour started on boxing day at the Tswaassen ferry terminal. The majority of us piled into the rally van and drove to Seattle. There we met two more of the tourists and flew to Los Angeles, arriving at around 10:30 PM. By midnight we had arrived at the lovely Burbank Hilton Hotel.

After a short night's sleep we were wakened early to play our first game in the Bellarmine-Jefferson Holiday Classic Tournament. Unfortunately, we were a little nervous going into the tournament because we didn't know what to expect, nor had we all played together as a full team. However, despite a few nerves and rusty plays, we came out with our first win of the tournament.

The tournament lasted for four days. The best match we played was the one that determined whether we would advance to the finals or not. The game was neckand-neck, until our opponents pulled away with a ten point lead. But by the end of the fourth quarter, we were down by only one, 33-32, with seconds remaining. It all came down to two free throws. Amy tied it up! Unfortunately, we just couldn't come through with the overtime win, but we were in contention for third place, and third place we won!

Although this was a basketball tour, we did see just about everything we could, including Universal Studios, Disneyland on New Year's eve (that was quite the experience!), Venice Beach (we all got our chance to be a Baywatch lifeguard!), Melrose Avenue (great shopping), Hollywood Boulevard, the Improv Theatre, Beverly Hills, and Rodeo Drive.

As well as playing basketball, we had a chance to watch it. We attended the L.A. Lakers vs. San Antonio Spurs at the Great Western Forum as well as a UCLA women's game.

After our visit in Los Angeles, the fifteen of us piled into our van and drove to San Diego. Although our stay in San Diego was somewhat short, it was very enjoyable. We visited the San Diego Wild Animal Park, rode the rollercoaster, ate at Planet Hollywood, and shopped.

Unfortunately, we only had one game in the San Diego area, and it took us about two hours to get there! However, we all played well and came out with a win. This gave us a 4-1 record for the tour.

On our last night, we went out to a nice restaurant for our tour banquet. A wonderful time was had by everyone and on behalf of the girls, we would like to thank the Patels and Mr. Sarsfield for all the time spent making this tour possible!

Grade 8 Expedition

Before everyone else arrived back at the school, the grade 8s went on a camping trip to get to know each other. We thought we'd have to sleep in tents on the cold ground, but we were wrong. We had the next step up from tents—we slept in beds!

We stayed in two separate houses—one for the girls and one for the boys. The houses were divided into rooms that had four bunks per room. Each house had a shower, but we didn't use them much because we began each day with a six AM swim in cold Lake Cowichan.

On most of the days we played games like football, soccer, basketball and capture the flag. On the second day, we had a fun-filled games day, with events including kayaking, California kick ball, a jungle gym race, and a food-eating contest.

We went kayaking to a small beach, where we were told to "find something interesting," in the words of the prefects—something "cool."

In the games we played, the teams were divided between boys and girls, and the girls called themselves "The Iron Women." In the jungle gym race there were two co-ed teams. You had to walk along a piece of rope and then climb on the monkey bars, which went up and down so that it was difficult to make your way. Then you had to sprint to the army climb, run around it, then go up and down ten times on the swing, and sprint to the end to win for your team. The final and most enjoyable thing was the food-eating contest. We had to put as much jell-o as possible our mouths, and after each new spoonful, we had to say, "Chubby Bunny." After awhile it was impossible to say the word. We were also tied one to another and had to feed the person on your right hand side, which meant, among other things, pudding up the nose.

Despite all the antics, the Grade Eight Expedition accomplished its goal, which was to use fun and laughter to bring us all together and make us realize that we were a team that would travel through Shawnigan together.

The Last of the

Groves' House Men

As we enter our final year at Shawnigan there are three people who share something unique and special. Sean Clare, Guthrie LeFevre and Roger Stephen will be the last of the Groves' House men to graduate from Shawnigan. The conversion of Groves' House from a boys' to a girls' dorm in 1992 was not only the end of an era, but the beginning of a new one. This change marked the end of the sixty-three year existence of Groves' House as a boys' residence. It was also a new beginning for the relocated Groves' boys and for the founding female members of Groves' House.

Groves' House will be remembered for its sense of family and House spirit. The whole house was linked together as a group, staff and students working as one. As for Sean, Guthrie and Roger, they chose to become members of Groves' because they all had brothers in the house. After the process of grade eight settlement, the boys were forced to make a new start in a new house. Mr. Williams, the housemaster, and the Groves' duty staff, were like family to the men of Groves'. On a regular basis both duty staff and parents would bring treats for the house and keep the sense of community. It was things like this that made Groves' House spirit so powerful. Although the years of Groves' being a boys' house are now over, those who lived there will cherish for a lifetime their fond memories of friends.

Chinese New Year Dinner

The annual Chinese New Year Dinner took place on 18 February. Sixty-three students and seven staff members celebrated the year of the Rat at the Gladiola Restaurant in Victoria. The speech given about Chinese New Year was not very long because the details, customs and stories about the year of the Rat were told in the previous Thursday's chapel service by Edmund Chan, Morna Yuen, and Annie Chou. The food was excellent. The meal ended with Mr. Candelaria handing out traditional red envelopes. Karaoke followed. There were some outstanding performances in Cantonese, Mandarin, and English. Singers, whether it was a student or a teacher, entertained the crowd as well as themselves. The atmosphere was cheerful and joyous. Thanks go to Mrs. Fraser, who had done a lot of organizing to make this dinner possible, and Mr. Candelaria for being so entertaining (Karaoke), responsible (staff in charge), and joyous (mood setter). Lastly, I would like to thank my co-worker, Morna Yuen, for working so cooperatively and hard in organizing this wonderful event.

By Edmund Chan

Loonies! Mr. Candelaria passes his best wishes to Albert Liao in a red pocket form.

Hey Mr. V-J! Lawrence Ku thinks he could be the MTV's star! Dream on, Ku!

Singing "Epiphany" professionally, Annie Chou captures the restaurant's attention.

Hey Baby, what's your year? Mr. P. Morris winks at the camera. It seems that Maya Grover, Abigail Bagley-Young, and Mr. I. Macpherson wonder what he's up to!

Belt it out, boys! Lay Hinn Ong, Channing Pestell, Chris Duckworth, Sean Clare, and Shawn Kent did a good job of it.

The Five Tenors! Annie Chou, Jennifer Lee, Morna Yuen, Larry Siu, and Edmund Chan thrill their masks to the crowd.

Getting a Little Ritzy!

The school opened to a new year full of changes; everything was a little different. There were new computers in every corner, new offices, new staff and even new dogs! But there was one change that deeply affected the student body. It was located deep down in the main building, a mysterious dark place that students had flocked to for years but only for the lingering taste of a cheese dog or milkshake. And those were only for the strong, the ones who could withstand the crush and the pressure of the never-ending line-up. No one stayed long, the dark teal colour of the walls proving too nauseating to withstand after the rapid ingestion of various monosaturates. After dark the place sat empty, the lone pop machine humming away the silence, while only the lusty or the thirsty descended into the murky depths of what was to become the NEW RITZ!

It is no longer a dungeon; it has become an underground cafe. The pop machine no longer sits in the silence. It is now forever surrounded by the jazzy sounds emerging from the jukebox and the fellow hummings of the other five vending machines. The mighty pool table stands at the back, always surrounded by various forms of pool sharks, the hungry ones and the lucky ones. Air hockey stands next to it, the puck being heard into the wee hours of the morning when grads become ninjas and stealth somewhat unsteadily through the night. Students' bodies have acquired "ritz bulges" and their student banks have slowly dwindled, becoming victims of the always hungry change machine.

But we love it! Yes we are all a little unhealthier and a little broke but we love the Ritz. It has given us somewhere to go in the winter that is nowhere near the staff room! For so long Shawnigan students have congregated in the main foyer after dinner because there was nowhere else to go; that doesn't happen any more because everyone has somewhere to go that is warm, comfy and dry. We've finally found our niche, and it has become a focal point for student life.

The ritz committee maintains the required "ambience" and the constant supply of Mr. Clean to wipe up spilt Italian cappuccinos. The staff can even be spotted downstairs during their spares gazing wistfully at the pool table they long to play on, trying ever so hard to suppress their desires to burst into song along with Fleetwood Mac. The Ritz is a success and always will be. With two bucks getting you a pack of chips, a cup of coffee and lots of conversation, how could it not?

Our Place: Cynthia Orlandi, Bret Souply, Sean Croft and Lucas Soutzo were some of the most frequently seen faces in the ritz.

Braid away! The grade 11 "ritz regulars" have fun with "Stan" Shephard's hair.

Full house! Austin Kenzie plays some intense poker with Lonsdale's House in a house ritz takeover.

Chat Session. Laura Mewhort and Jane Mitchell have a wee chat in the ritz after prep.

Stopping by the Woods on a Snowy Evening

Whose woods these are I think I know. His house is in the village though; He will not see me stopping here To watch his woods fill up with snow.

My little horse must think it queer To stop without a farmhouse near Between the woods and frozen lake The darkest evening of the year.

He gives his harness bells a shake To ask if there is some mistake. The only other sound's the sweep Of easy wind and downy flake.

The woods are lovely, dark and deep. But I have promises to keep, And miles to go before I sleep, And miles to go before I sleep.

Grade 8

Woodwork

This year the woodwork activity moved into their new facility along with their new instructor, Mr. Smith. The students were all at different levels and were all very enthusiastic. Projects range from the easiest imaginable things to the very complicated, for the experienced people. For the beginners it was a matter of getting used to the tools and machines. The experienced members of the group furthur developed their skills by testing themselves with advanced work. Despite the shortage of Cocabola, we were able to find other types of high quality wood to work with. Five classes used the woodwork facilities along with the juniors and seniors who came in their Fine Art time. All the machines and tools had a lot of use but breakdowns were kept to a minimum. Mr. Smith has been a great instructor for the entire group and a great benefit to the Shawnigan woodwork program. An art form where creativity plays a huge role, woodwork has taught us how to think of something we would like to attempt to make and then try to make the vision a reality. The 1995-96 woodwork group has lasted through a very eventful but memorable year. All are hoping for an even better year next year.

The 95-96 pottery season was quite successful, even though on some days there were 12 people to share 6 wheels. This gave us time for both hand sculpting and time on a wheel. We were skilfully instructed by Margaret Miles, who was persistent even though some potential masterpieces ended up in someone's hair. Margaret displayed her kindness and patience to her work and her students. Returning students broadened their talents and experimented with new techniques and skills. New students caught on quickly; before long it was hard to tell the difference between the experienced and the newcomers. Our recently purchased pugmull allowed us to recycle the clay which had been splattered on the walls.

Pottery develops patience (over time), creativity, and in the process enhances our imaginations.

Pottery

"This year has been the best year for pottery in the six years that I've been at Shawnigan, in terms of production and in terms of the quality of the products."

—Margaret Miles

Operating heavy machinery: Adil Shivji makes the correct cut to begin his new project.

Master of the art: Geoff Goodson displays his woodwork talents.

The perfect pot: Rhea Stewart trying to achieve the perfect pot.

Busy, Busy, Busy: Alejandro Usabiaga finds the time to acknowledge the camera while preparing some clay for his next project.

Oleaving by Chris Forrest

This year we have seen a great increase in numbers of students participating in Weaving. With about 20 juniors and 12 seniors, we have a solid base to build upon. This increase in number has meant that there are many first time weavers in the program, so it has been a fairly basic year in terms of difficulty. Most people are trying the new skills—weaving a scarf or making a tapestry. These two processes are quite diverse: tapestry is woven by hand threading the pattern while weaving, or loom controlled weaving, is done by using a loom. The complexities of the project patterns range from simple twill to a very complex double weave pattern, which creates a challenge for the experienced weavers to pass their skills on down to the novice textiles students. This art requires a great deal of patience and concentration to perfect the woven project. With the aid of our extremely experienced teacher, Leola Witt-McNie, we have been able to cope with our challenges and create our expressions of art. Our teacher believes working with strings has a very calming and healing effect upon your soul and cleanses your mind for your unique thoughts. And when you think about it, you can see where she is coming from, because weaving takes your mind away from the everyday problems. Anyway, the weaving activity is making great progress and is getting better every year.

Outreach

Shawnigan Lake offers many Fine Art activities for all students, one of which has been the Outreach program. It has been highly successful and beneficial for both students and the community for six or seven years and is continuing to thrive.

Every school year, ten to fifteen students devote their time and efforts to partake in giving their service to others. By others, we mean young children and elderly people. Whether it be at the Cobble Hill Church for Brownies and Guides, or at the local kindergarten school and around the Cowichan area helping Beavers, Scouts and Sparks, or at the local hospital and Extensive Care unit with older people—we have all learned the meaning of dedication, devotion, and determination. In the act of helping others, teaching others, and caring for them, we receive the feeling of accomplishment and satisfaction.

by Brooke Prior

Each student takes on a different role and each experiences a lot. Candy stripers, despite the name, go amongst many people who are aged or elderly, those who can not feed or take proper care of themselves. Candy stripers generally have the tasks of feeding at meal times, folding and handing out bibs, and dispersing straws and cups. Most of all, they must help make the people comfortable while they spend countless days in the hospital. Both young and old grow from the time spent and shared together. Strong bonds tend to grow when dealing one-onone. This also applies with the boys who help with the Beavers, Scouts, and Sparks. To the young children, these students become someone whom they may look up to, admire, and learn from. Each student is often assigned a group to help the leaders advise. These students also take up the duties of playing games, building things, making presents and guiding the children through many of the programs having to do with nature (i.e. nature walks and orienteering). This is also true for Brownies and Guides. The girls who take this leadership upon themselves, help the young aspiring Brownies to sell cookies, learn pledges, stay committed, help with learning safety and precautionary guidelines, and much more. They help to teach the girls not to give up on their goals.

All in all, Outreach stands true to its name; it teaches the students responsibilities and that it is necessary to help others to "Reach Out" to those in need, and to learn and build character. This program has been very successful and I hope those graduating this year take that memory of this contribution with them. May it be just as successful in the years to come.

Technicolour Desmond: Desmond Heward spins a yarn.

Do you think she'll know we bought it? Kevin Jones and Larry Siu watch Leola Wit-McNie gives their weaving project the third degree.

Now which string was I holding last? Chris Forrest attacks the loom with skill and lots of patience.

So where was that extra pillow? Nicole St. Jean makes Henni as comfortable as possible.

Showing how it's done: Brooke Prior knows that it doesn't get any easier.

A hug a day: Dominique Sullivan shares her compassion with a friend.

Library

Looking around you see shelves and shelves of books, evenly ordered and stacked. The only sound comes from the ventilators above you. Breathing in, you smell the musty and dusty air and realize where you are.

This year, the people of Library Activity worked hard to keep this essential facility running smoothly.

As often as possible, the 14 members of the group got together to sort through and shelve the books, order the magazines and keep the newspapers up-to-date . . . and clean up after others!

The more experienced members of the activity laminated posters and used the computers to catalogue and circulate books.

The people in this group admitted that it was fun and that he hard work paid off—especially when the fines for late books paid for a pizza day.

The library staff would like to thank all the individuals who remembered to put away their reference materials.

Bry Proudfoot takes a moment to look up from her work.

Wes Gordon and Tony Vane share duties repairing books.

Environment

Working for the environment: Sonja Leverkus, Lee Burles, Karla Zens and Layla Charleson.

Mrs. D. manages an organizational session in the Library.

This year at Shawnigan there was a completely new activity: The Environment Activity.

Taking place on all senior activity days, this new opportunity involved many different things having to do with the environment surrounding

At the beginning of the year, the four members of the activity were busy distributing all the recycling bins throughout the school and planning out an interpretive trail that is to be set on the school trail.

As well, environmental awareness presentations to elementary school students were undertaken by Sonja Leverkus, Lee Burles, Karla Zens, and Layla Charleson.

Although the presentations were focused on endangered species, they were also meant to awaken environmental awareness in the children. On October 11th, 1995 they gave their first presentation to a grade one class at the Elsie Myles school, and as the weeks and months passed by, they moved onto giving presentations to higher grades.

The Voice in the Wilderness . . .

Publications has always been one of the activities that gets tucked away in a corner and forgotten about. The effort is only recognized at the end of the school year when the long-awaited Yearbook is distributed. This year there have been more than a few changes to the publications centre in the Hobbies Building. The old equipment has been removed in favour of brand new computers, printers and even a new staff supervisor. After a few start up pains, the regular crew taught the new kids and Mr. Connolly the way things work.

Along with his rather unique charisma, Mr. Connolly brought new ideas and enormous amounts of energy to the publications activity. He also brought the drive to start a new school newspaper. With Carly Hall and Ewan Anderson in charge of the Yearbook, and the ever business-like Ryan Kalt heading up The Voice, the year progressed fairly smoothly, allowing for deadlines and other stress-inducing problems. Few members of the school's population realize the time and effort that has to be put into the yearbook to get a well-polished final product. This statement has been made in every write-up for Publications since the beginning of time. But what does it actually mean?

First, there is the business of designing pages, taking photos, developing film, printing photos, writing captions and titles, and proofreading everything six or seven times . . . and then putting everything together to make a page that is cohesive, attractive and sensible. This may sound fairly simple, but every member of the staff must be an expert in every one of these stages, and be able to do three or four of them at once. If you are ever in doubt about how hard Publications works, drop in just before a major deadline; the room will resemble a semi-organized chaos.

The crew in Publications has put great time and effort into the making of this book. We hope that when you look into it twenty years down the road, it will stir the sights, smells, and sounds of your memory. Enjoy . . .

"Carly, you won't believe how far behind we are this week . . . "

-Ewan Anderson

"The deadlines I can handle, but I think these computers hate me!"

-Suzanne Boyd

"Don't bother quoting Mr. Connolly; you can't print words they don't list in the dictionary."

-Alex Dutchak

"You did what?"

-Carly Hall

You want it when! Suzanne Boyd smiles nervously as she frets about the impending deadlines.

Beginning can be the hardest thing to do. Beginning involves forming a plan, which takes time and involves risks. The beginning of the school year is difficult and exciting for everyone. Staff and students must plan ahead and set goals. These goals may be to score more goals, get an "A" in Geo or finish the yearbook. Once we set these goals and start working towards them, everything begins to move along like a well-oiled machine. Here is the first term, the beginning . . .

Colts

The Colt "B" and "C" rugby teams had a very successful season this year. Both teams had many players who had never played rugby before.

Throughout the season everyone improved to a much higher standard. As players were switched among the "C's," "B's" and in some cases the "A's," it took time for a team to settle. When it did, however, the strengths of both teams were obvious. New players adopted the game quickly and everyone displayed tremendous enthusiasm and energy. The "B" forwards were particularly strong and gave the "A's" some difficulty during practice sessions.

Mr. Morris, the "C's" coach, ran the team well, molding the "C" talents and fitness to an unthought of pinnacle. The team finished the season well and were proud of their contribution.

Mr. Hall and Mr. Felix kept the "B's" at their peak and pressuring the "A's" constantly. Both teams finished satisfied with their seasons and many look forward to an exciting brand of senior rugby next year.

Below: Tearakau Houston considers his next move.

During the Colt "A" season we have had many glories. Our first game of the season was against St. Georges, and the stronger Shawnigan squad rightly came out on top. Throughout the year, we had to uphold our 2-year unbeaten streak, which was difficult against such powerhouses as Oak Bay High School, Brentwood and St. Michael's University School. The strong "B" team kept all of the "A" players at bay, making them work hard to maintain their positions. Nice new acquisitions such as Tearakau Houston and Adam Watchhorn did very well for their first year of rugby. In the course of the season, we were harassed about our headgear (helmets), which took a while to get over.

Until the Island Championships we had won all of our games. Because of a grade restriction, Evan Hall was not able to play. Our first game in the Islands was against Ladysmith which we won quite handily. The next game, however, was not as easy. Our first meeting of the season against St. Michael's was a hard one. We struggled through and we eventually found ourselves on top. Our third and final game was against Oak Bay High School. The first half was close, but in the second the S.L.S. Colts pulled away. The final score was 47-25.

On behalf of the whole team, I would like to thank Mr. Hall and Mr. Felix for all of their coaching skills and support. I hope to see everyone in September up on the fields trying out for the 1st XV.

2nd XV

This fall Shawnigan may have produced one of the best 2nd XV sides in its history. The team managed to be virtually unbeaten until an unexpected loss occured vs. Brentwood. With that aside, the team was well spirited and played with heart and determination. I believe that the team's drive for the taste of victory could account for our outstanding record. The forward pack was hard as well as disciplined, and the backs were creative and fast: obviously this was a winning combination. Good job, guys! - Ryan Dicken.

With a 3-1 record, this season was a successful one for the 3rd XV. The team consisted of a mixture of experienced players and players who were new to the game. For the expierienced players it was a casual season in that they covered basic rugby skills with the new recruits. All the players contributed to the best of their capabilities, and although most of the expierienced players never got a shot at the 2nd XV, it still turned out to be an interesting season. I'd like to thank Mr. Williams for coping with our ignorance, being our coach and preparing us for the forthcoming rugby seasons.

This year the Shawnigan Lake 1st XV had a decent first term. We ended the first term with a 3-5 record including two losses to touring teams. Due to numerous injuries to our starters, we didn't do as well as we expected but it was clearly shown that we are a strong team. Chad Plater did an excellent job in captaining the team during my absence, and a number of people came through to replace other injured starters. I believe that with the learning experience of our Celtic Tour, we will be one of the most dominant forces in third term rugby and the B.C. championships. The team and I would like to thank our two coaches, Mr. Robertson and Mr. Samuel, and to all those who supported our games—especially Mr. Derek Hyde-Lay . . . may he remain forever in our memories.

1st XV Rugby

At one point in time the field at a 1st XV game had both sidelines jam-packed with spectators both from Shawnigan and from the rival schools. You had to go early to get a decent view of the game. It did not matter whether or not you knew what was going on in the match as long as you cheered loudly for your school. For the past couple years these 1st XV games have been less well supported. This has being partly due to having senior rugby in the summer term, when everyone is busy doing something.

This year the support returned. The senior rugby program was moved back to the fall, and twice we enjoyed sporting days which began with the grade eight XV and finished with the 1st XV. With the help of the pep squad, the level of support grew. The first big I.S.A. game at Shawnigan was against Brentwood. This game was a huge success as we crushed the opposition by more than thirty points.

The next I.S.A. match at Shaw featured our long-time rivals St. Georges.

This game opened up the attractive new posts (courtesy of the Class of '85) on the 1st XV field. The game took place on homecoming weekend so a lot of alumni supported the game.

Probably the greatest display of school spirit was when the rugby teams travelled down to Brentwood late in the season. Even though the 1st XV narrowly lost the game, the atmosphere was electric. With luck and school loyalty, this rejuvinated spirit will continue in the coming years.

The sound of sticks cracking against the ball fills the air as the field hockey team trudges up to the top field for a new season.

The Senior Field Hockey team had a great start to our eventually successful season. We were thankful to be the first to play on our "flattened marshland."

The provincials were set as a realistic goal for our team this year, but even with our 5 wins and 2 ties in the league, we lost our spot in a 1-0 game.

Throughout the season, we were enthusiastically supported by Mrs. Martin and her sidekick Conner, especially while we were gaining "experience" at a variety of AAA tournaments.

We had a very diverse team which was held together by warm fuzzies and our traditional song (which we hope will live on forever). Many dilemmas added character to the team, such as car-sickness-music, mouthguard phobias, and a large range of injuries from broken nails to popped kneecaps. Some injuries were caused by ball magnets— you know who you are—which were often created by the distracting, but not so distressing, rugby boys on the lower field!

It was a great season, and thanks to all of you for listening to story time with Von and Amy during assembly!

Ir. Field Hockey

The junior field hockey team's season started out this year with two major surprises. The first was the number of people who had signed up to play. Last year there were barely enough people to host a single team, but this year there was enough interest to form two complete teams, with extras. The second surprise was the high quality of skill and innate ability that all the girls had, even the youngest of the beginners. Along with the reformation of our wetlands into a completely redone pitch (thank you, Mr. Magee!), these were the foundations for the best junior hockey team that the school has ever "fielded." Sometimes it seemed as though the practices would never end as Mrs. Grass made us run laps until the ground beneath our feet was almost as worn out as we were, but it was well worth the effort.

Our season culminated in our finest-ever result of fourth at the I.S.A.s. If we offended anyone with our off-beat and slightly sarcastic sense of humour, we're sorry. It's all part and parcel when you throw together such a diverse group of people coming from entirely different backgrounds, both on the field and off. It's a credit to both our coaches and every individual on the team that we managed to bond together into such a cohesive unit. If next year's team sticks to the same chosen path leading to success, then perhaps new heights of achievement will be reached. Thanks go out to everyone who supported us throughout the season but particularly to Maggie, our main cheerleader and team mascot. Good luck to all of next year's team and well done to all of this year's Junior Ironwomen!

Jr. B & C Dolleyball

Bump, Thud, "Sorry guys," Bump, Thud "Oops," Bump, Bump, Bump, "Ow!" All right, so we weren't the most competitive and achievementorientated teams. We did have bucketfuls of fun, though, and every day offered an opportunity to improve our skills. Our practices were kept friendly and we didn't get stressed out. At a school as busy and hectic as Shawnigan, this was definitive incentive for joining the rec team. We weren't continually in the limelight or the centre of thousands of supporters, but that wasn't what we were after. In our own quiet (figuratively speaking) way we went about improving our skills and enjoying ourselves with a great deal of enthusiasm and gusto. Despite the fact that we weren't competitive in a "We-want-to-win-the-Island-Championships" sort of manner, we became close knit teams and enjoyed both the ups and downs of such. We all gained a couple of important things from this team experience such as an appreciation for fitness (or lack thereof) and the strength of the bonds that can be found when you have a ball, a net, and eleven other people. This was especially beneficial to those us who were new to this school at the beginning of the year. Thanks go out to Mr. Noble, Mrs. Patel, and Mrs. Bruce-Lockhart for an enjoyable season, and also to all the girls on the team who made it so much fun.

Outdoor Pursuits is not only a sport, but the pursuit the trail, or watching the of a great time. Ten years from now, some people who were a part of the experience will remember drinking hot coffee and watching the sun rise on Portland Island. Others will think of the hike on the West Coast Trail when they had to wade Lawry in his all-rounded chest-high through the ocean, or the surf kayaking trip up by Tofino. One of the all kayaks. most unique trips was led by

Mr. Ganley and a select expeditionary group to the summit of Mount Elby-Edwards. By the end of the first term, we had discovered how to make the best of a camping trip by cooking great food, and taking it easy in our sea kayaks, on stars by the campfire.

Mr. Yates, Mr. Lawry, and the newly welcomed Mr. Ganley led us through all sorts of weather, exercise, and outdoor activities. Mr. Ganley showed his expertise in canoeing, Mr. ability to be Superman, and Mr. Yates as the master of

The Senior Girls' Volley-ball team took the '95 season by storm. After a successful training camp at the end of the summer, we completed our best season in years, including a 24-1 record against "A" schools.

The first tournament Shawnigan entered was held at Malaspina College. After a great showing against some excellent teams, including a win over the "AAA" Provincial runners-up, we placed 5th out of the 25 participants.

At the I.S.A.'s, the Shawnigan squad finished 2nd in their pool. Unfortunately, we couldn't pull through in the semis and lost to Crofton House in three sets. Shawnigan came out with third place.

Throughout the season, the team showed enormous commitment and team spirit. This spirit was especially present during their exciting home matches, the first of which took place on Friday, October 13th versus Brentwood. Perhaps due to SLS nerves and too much adrenaline, Brentwood took the first set. However, all it took was a few deep breaths, and it was home free. Shawnigan took the match.

At the Island Championships, Shawnigan worked extremely hard to defend its title: the team went without a loss, and therefore received a place in the finals, at which point we faced our top rivals-Duncan Christian. Shawnigan took the first set with ease. The second set didn't go quite our way, and we were closely defeated. In the final battle Shawnigan was down 11-4 when Mr. Carr called a time-out and gave the team a moment to reflect on what was before them. Whether the team won or lost, at this point they were going to the Provincials. But did they really want to give up their reigning title? Certainly not! Shawnigan retook the court and proved to Duncan Christian that no team could take away their title. Shawnigan defeated Duncan Christian 15-11. Cynthia and Izzy were named to the first all-star team, and Melissa was named the MVP for the second year in a row!

With the Island Championship under their belt, there was only one more obstacle left: the Provincials, which were held in Duncan.

On December 1st, Shawnigan headed to Duncan to begin the first day of play. After their first four matches, Shawnigan was undefeated. On day two, the final day of pool play, Shawnigan took on the reigning Provincial champions, Immaculata. The whole school showed up to support the team. In an incredibly well-fought match, Shawnigan won in three long sets to take the pool!

On day three, SLS once again faced Immaculata. And again, the Shawnigan supporters were out to cheer on the Senior Girls. The teams battled back and forth and split the first two sets. After missing a few key serves in the final games, Shawnigan was defeated in an spectacular match. But after a few sobs, Shawnigan got back on their feet and took the bronze medal!

10/10

We laugh together, we cry together, we live together, we are together.

Grade 10 isn't merely another grade; it is the grade. No longer are we bullied by elders, or lost in the middle; we are the head of the juniors.

In grade 8 we clung together, frightened of this unknown place; in grade 9 we were nothing, not old, not young just grade 9s, but now with the new people who have joined us, we are showing the school that we are a group to be reckoned with.

So although we have 2 more years to go, this is the year that truly has some of the best memories.

—Erica Shepard

The new photo club has been completely settled into now. We finally got our lockers so that we can keep all our stuff organized. Unfortunately they are not nearly as colourful as the old rainbow lockers. It seems the school opted for subtlety rather than fun. All the senior photographers submitted pictures to the Kodak "Images of Who We Are" contest, a compilation of pictures that intend to show or state something about the youth of Canada.

Mackintosh

Unfortunately only four images were selected per school. Those selected from Shawnigan were by Abbie Bagley-Young, Chris Duckworth, Jessica Mackintosh, and Genevieve Teevan. These pictures, along with the rest of the display, were shown in Vancouver during early May.

In the summer term, the Seniors took a very early morning trip to Victoria to shoot some slides. The citizens of Victoria were generally co-operative. We took lots of pictures of bleary-eyed people at an ungodly hour. The only untoward occurence was when Pete Houston, Rehman Rajan and Keenan Bidinger got pulled over by the police for stealing doughnuts (which they did not). Mr. Lane was inhumanly cheerful the entire morning.

Art

This year art has been very exciting and like no other year. It is the first full school year the Hobbies Building has been open. Many artists have benefitted from woodwork, pottery, sculpture, silk screening, and computer graphics being so nearby. We have all been able to enjoy each other's work and have been inspired by it. As usual, artists have used every medium, from pencils to styrofoam, to paints, to wax. We experimented with new materials and mastered old ones. As the radio blared, paintings, drawings and silk screens came to life. Faces new and old to the art field were brought together to share ideas and concepts about each other's work. It was also a time to relax and express oneself, without saying a word. Mr. Rolston helped us reach new heights and gain a better understanding of the art world and its history.

During the play, many pieces were exhibited at the Cowichan Community Center. Our contribution to the school included the Music Department's CD '95-'96

The first full year of operation in the new facility has been wonderful. Students have had the opportunity to work in the new computer graphics lab, print making, sculpture, pottery, photo and drawing/ painting studios. The quality and variety of work produced this year has been excellent. It's a great place to be.

Computer Graphics

Proud: Joe Harris shows off his work

Junior Computer Graphics consists of three people: Stuart Ward, Joe Harris, Jason Liang, Harit Kittiampon (and their teacher, Mr. Cox). The seniors consist of Dave Moseley, Graham Reynolds, Russell Calkins, Carl Siu and their teacher Mr.Cox. These six students love computer graphics, but they have to be careful, because it involves a lot of detail. They do it because it involves a lot of creativity and imagination. All of the students say it is a good fine art and more people should come and use their imaginations for something useful. In computer graphics they create 3D pictures using the Painter and Photoshop 3.0 programs. This activity takes place on Wednesdays and Fridays at 3:15 to 5:15 in the computer graphics lab located on the bottom floor of the hobbies building.

Finishing up: The "Three Stooges" thread their way to success.

Stitching away! Lauren Watson shows off her sewing skills.

In Fashion.

Fashion Design consists of six people: Lauren Watson, Laura Mewheart, Molly Kean, Noel Daigle, Jessica Palmer, Kristin Storry, Suzanne Hay, Jane Mitchell and their teacher Ms. Garraway. In the Fashion Design program they design many different kinds of clothing—jeans, pyjamas, sweat shirts, boxers, long johns, dresses, and most of the costumes for Oliver. Using the sewing machines takes a lot of talent because they need to know when and where to use the right kind of stitching. Many of the things they make can take days to weeks to finish. This fine art takes a lot of concentration and passion to do. It takes place every Wednesday and Friday from 3:15 to 5:15 on the top floor of the main building.

This year's production of Oliver! will be remembered as one of Shaw's best musicals to date. Certainly it encompassed fun and laughter, tears and sorrow, and talent in singing, acting, dancing and set design. The cast, led by James Moore in the title role, Katy Bowen-Roberts (Nancy), Kelsey McDaniel (Bill Sykes), and Sean Love (Fagin), and backed up by a strong chorus, was full of energy and rehearsed to the point where their every move seemed totally spontaneous. This all came from the roots of a mismatched group with absolutely no coordination and not a clue about how to impersonate a Cockney accent. As always, Mr. Grey ensured that everyone learned their lines in time for the production, which was held a little bit early this year. New stars were born (Sean can sing!) and old talents reclaimed their rightful positions (how many years has this been, Kelsey?). Other roles of note were Zac Spry as the off-the-wall, nose-picking, wisecracking Artful Dodger; Molly Duignan as the flirtatious Widow Corney; Steven Maynard as her chubby hubby; Shawn Kent as the drunken undertaker; Sarena Hymen as Mrs. Sowerberry; and Sarah Lane as Nancy's pretty little sidekick, Bet. Naturally, the most important cast member has been left to the end. This was Olivia, Bill Sykes' dog and fierce companion. Not only was she a lead, she was also the cast and crew's mascot. Thanks go out to Mr. Shields for his great improv work at the moments when it really counted, and Mr. Grey for his incredible leadership.

Nancy has some competition: Kelsey McDaniel and Lindsay Ellis fight for their chance in front of the camera.

Aging quickly? With a little help from the make-up artists, Sean Love is transformed in to the 73-year-old Fagin.

On the floor again: Honestly, Katy Bowen-Roberts spent more time on the floor than Zac spent picking his nose!

The American Dream

On March 13 and 14 the senior drama group performed The American Dream, and it wasn't for the first time. One week earlier they had peformed in Victoria's High School Theatre Festival. It wasn't a competion but all eleven of the participating schools received adjudications, and a best performance was chosen to go on to the provincial level. Shawnigan was the only school there competing for the first time. Laura DiMarzo, Rizwan Moorji, Rhea Stewart, Genevieve Teevan, Sean Kent, Akihiro Izuka, all directed by Ms. Rose from the Shaw-nigan Players, turned out a humourous, enlightening, and thoroughly enjoyable performance. They placed an extremely close second to Oak Bay High, which was chosen to go on.

Ms. Rose wanted to do this particular show long before she came to Shawnigan. She was attracted to its satire and to the range of parts that it offered. The students also found it a fun experience. They got to experiment with different media—such as masks—and with incorporating distinct animal characteristics in to their roles.

The play wasn't all fun and games. For Laura and Sean especially, the schedule was often hectic and stressful. They had Oliver rehersals in the afternoons and then rehersals for this show during prep. School work and other commitments were crammed into the leftover few minutes of the day. The pace was incredible but the product was as well.

For the two nights that the school was regaled by this show, the talk about it was almost endless. Oliver had only been finished for a couple of weeks and the praise for The American Dream picked up right where Oliver left off. This was rewarding for a group of young men and women who were dealing with subject matter which is (we hope!) out of their realm of experience. The sexual overtones were so blatant that several cast members had to rehearse many, many times before they could say their lines with a straight face. It was well worth the effort. When both the people in the show and the audience thoroughly enjoy it, then it is called a unqualified success. Well done!

Stage Crew

In any theatrical production, very often the hard work put in by the people constructing the sets and making the scene changes gets overlooked. That is not the case, however, at Shawnigan, for Mr. Grey and all of the cast are very good about giving credit where it is due.

This year's stage crew was under the gun due to the late arrival of Eric Detchon.
Through some very hard work in January and February the set was completed on time and moved to the theatre in Duncan. Once there the crew practiced set changes, and by production time, they were flawless.

Many long hours went into this year's production and there were times we all wondered if it was worth it. Closing night showed that it was: there was a tremendous feeling of satisfaction! Members of this year's stage crew were: Steve Hale, Pat Knill, Cynthia Orlandi, Ross Pearson, Jules Seaman, Bret Souply, Akio Tyler, Quinn Griesdale, Izzy Czerveniak, Tracy Steinburg, Ryan Dicken, and Guthrie LeFevre.

Tr. Tsoys Tsasketball

This year the Junior 'A' boys team was selected early in December to start a season which involved numerous games and tournaments. The team played 18 games over the course of the season including some very tough one's against teams such as Cowichan and Brentwood. On the whole we faired very well and finished up with a record of 12 wins and 6 losses. We posted our best result in a tournament at the one at Highlands School where we finished 4th. We played very well and worked hard to finish that high in a tourny where there was a lot of tough opposition. We hosted one tournament which has become the annual Jr. Stag Classic. Although we did not finish that well, as we finished in 6th place, the tournament was run very efficiently with the help of our junior officials. On behalf of the team I would like to thank Mr. Noble for doing a great job in coaching us during our successful season.

—Peter Jellema

There were enough players who joined the Junior boy's basketball program this year to make up two teams. For those of us who did not make the 'A' team we got a chance to improve our game by playing on the 'B' team. Although we did not have a lot of games in the season we were able to get an idea of what it would be like in a game situation. During our practices we scrimmiged a lot so that the more experienced players and the newcomers to the game could both be involved in game situations.We did however play three games in the end which were all against Brentwood. We came up with two victories and one loss. We were supposed to have a tournament at some point during the season but it turned out only one team showed up and that happened to be Brentwood. Mr. Williams did a great job with us as a lot of people were just being introduced to the game. I hope some people will go on to make the 'A' team next year and that the 'B' team has a lot of success.

-Chris McIntyre

Just do it! Shannon, Rachel and Melissa show off their shoes en route to a game in Los Angeles.

Swish! Izzy prepares for a foul shot. Izzy was the top scoring player on the team.

Free ride: Cynthia gives her ankle a rest between games. Cynthia managed to play the rest of the season with this nagging injury.

Hello, L.A! The team after a game in the sun. During their tour the team placed third in their tournament.

Sr Girls Psasketball The best season ever!

The senior girls basketball team had a fine season, losing three games by a combined total of only twenty points. Highlights included our third place finish at the Bell-Jeff tournament in Los Angeles, the tour to Southern California itself (thanks to Izzy, Cynthia and Shana for the swirl-pool late-nite infosession!), and our win at the Stelly's tournament. Here, we beat two AAA schools and an AA school. We had exciting wins against Brentwood, and at both the ISA's and the Island tournament. We were playing for first in both of these tournaments. Unfortunately, we ran into foul trouble in the final game of the Islands, and winter weather prevented us finishing the ISA tournament—a great disappointment! I enjoyed my season with the girls—though it had its interesting moments! I told them we'd be in every game we played, because they had gritty determination to play as hard as they could. That prophesy turned out to be true: I am reminded of Cynthia playing several games—and playing with her usual abandon—with a badly sprained ankle. Melissa did not let a broken nose take her out of our final games. She played as hard and as fearlessly as she did before her injury. At the end of the season, after the disappointing loss in the Island championships which left us all feeling flat, they were still able to rally, practice hard (though it helped when they won "prizes"!), then play a fine game against Brentwood. I have mentioned a few major injuries that affected us, but all the girls played through nagging injuries, colds and flu, required assignments, and personal upsets, yet managed to remain very focussed on basketball. I congratulate them all for this! I must add my thanks particularly to Carly for her quiet leadership of the team, demonstrated most vividly when she played inspired basketball in our final Island game and did her best to win it for us! Thanks, girls, for a great season!

Senior Psoys Psasketball

This year the senior boys competitive basketball team struggled to say the least. Our team was young and, therefore, lacked experience and depth campared to some of the larger schools.

However, the players never lacked in determination and each game was fought hard, even in the face of 6' 8" giants.

The season was a learning experience, for myself and for those who will play next year.

I would like to thank our coach, Mr. Austin, for his tireless efforts and for sticking with us in some frustrating times!

Good luck in next year's season!

—Andrew Hay

Back Row: Stuart Gripton, Lawrence Ku, Russell Calkins, Dave Randall, Josh Jackson, Chris Ander, Rudy Sheih, Mr. D. Austin

Squash

This year the squash programme was once again popular. After the tryouts had been completed, what remained was a dedicated and competitive team composed of about thirty seniors and juniors who were divided into senior and junior "A" and "B" teams.

Although much of the season was spent doing ball control and movement drills, this year marked the return of the squash ladder after a lengthy absence. This allowed much more in-school competition, and improved our games immensely. For the first part of the term, Mike Wilson was at the top of the ladder, until Sophie Rimell surpassed him. Third and fourth spots were occupied by Larry Siu and Alex Dutchak, respectively.

Some of the highlights of the year included a clinic run by Stuart Dixon. As usual, he came to the school and ran us around until most of us were ready to collapse. Then came the famous words: "All right! That's it for the warmup! Let's start working!" Despite the fact that most of us were in severe pain for the next couple of days, the sore muscles translated into much improved movement on the court and greatly increased fitness.

Throughout the year we had several matches against our rivals down at Brentwood. Although we played hard, their courts were unfamiliar and we came away with a loss and a tie. As most of the players can attest to, the extra two feet of width can make quite a bit of difference in the long run.

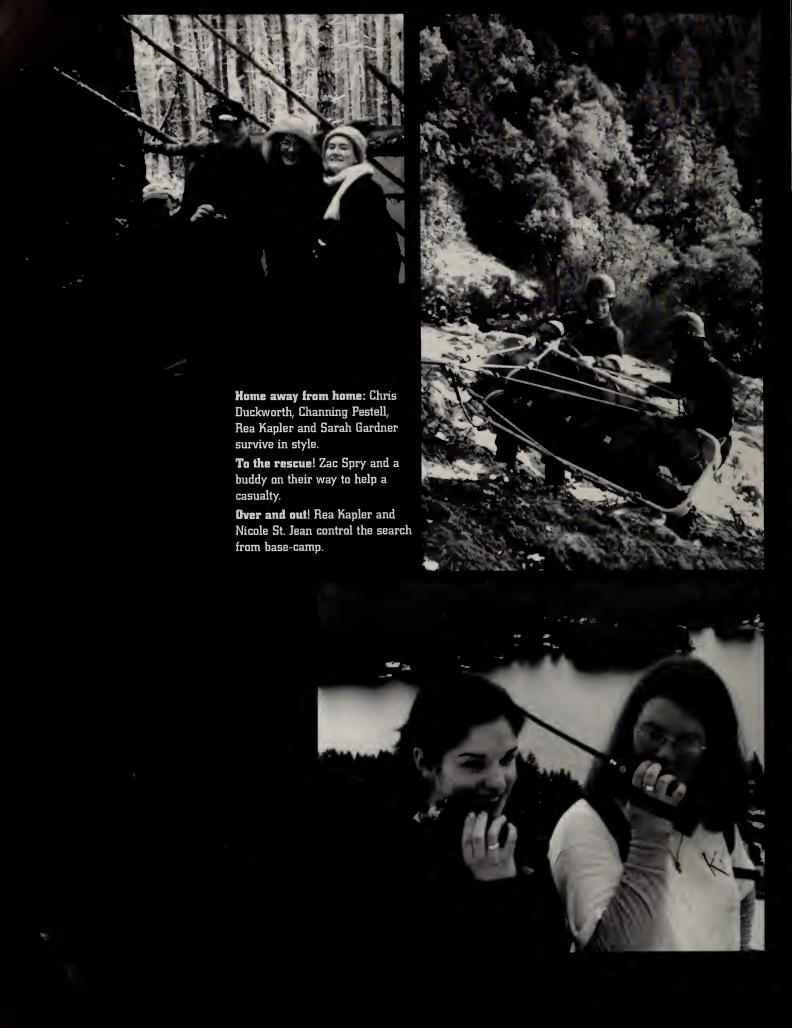

Once again the major tournament that the squash programme attended was the Pacific Northwest Junior Squash Tournament. We had some good showings in all of the age categories, with several players winning their sections of the draw. The best showing overall was by team captain Larry Siu, who made it to the semi-finals of the boys Under-19 main draw.

The final events of the season were the interhouse competitions and the in-school tournament. The "A" pool of the tournament was won by Larry Siu in a close match with Sophie Rimell, and Yuichi Levinson, an outsider, beat Devon Johnson in the "B" pool final. In the girls' interhouse competition, Groves' came first, followed by Kaye's and School. Lake's won the boys competition, followed by Copeman's, Lonsdale's and Ripley's.

Overall, it was a successful season for the students involved in squash. Although we may not get the recognition that rowing gets . . . at least we were warm. Good luck to all those who are playing next year; the team should have a solid base.

Search And Rescue

Despite having an overly large group and being cut to the shortest, coldest term of the year, our Search and Rescue team managed to get through okay. Although the ice never froze, it seemed like some of the team members did after some of our cold winter swims and the annual Mud Run. Whether it was hauling gear off Baldy Mountain, trudging through waistdeep snow on our snow survival camp, or digging the bus out of the icy ditch Andy had put it into, we worked as a team. The team had a strong base of grade twelves from last year's team, and because of this it was possible for Mr. Lawry to lead fifty people through the whole SAR course. Thanks to Mr. Lawry and to Andy for the driving.

-R. Stephen (Captain)

In late February, Shawnigan's jazz players headed down to Idaho to compete in one of the the largest high school jazz festivals in North America—the Lionel Hampton Jazz Festival. Our representatives included the Junior and senior jazz ensembles, the senior jazz combo, and the vocal jazz group.

After a 12-hour bus ride, the fatigued group arrived at Washington State University, when we would spend the duration of the trip. Each morning, we headed out bright and early to the University of Idaho (only a few miles away). There we played jazz and attended many clinics put on by famous jazz musicians. At night, we went to concerts at the Kibbiedome, where we watched such jazz greats as Lionel Hampton and Brian Bromberg. The trip was a fabulous experience for all.

Music Department

The Year In Review

The music department at Shawnigan Lake School continued to grow this year. There were four classes operating in the time table: grade 8 band, junior band (9/10), senior jazz band (10/11/12), and the voice class (11/12). Junior and senior jazz combo, string ensemble, choir, and song writing took place during fine arts time. In addition, more than 60 students took advantage of the opportunity to take private lessons in voice, violin, guitar, drums and saxophone. The department had a very full schedule in 95/96. In addition to numerous performances in chapel and at major school functions, we put on several successful concerts and participated in music festivals across North America. The department also recorded and released its first-ever compact disk, Noted Progress.

Our first major performance of the year was at the Fine Arts days on November 24/25th. Several groups participated in the evening concerts and were well received by the audience.

In the new year, things began to get busy. In February, our senior combo, vocal jazz combo, junior jazz band and senior jazz band participated in the Lionel Hampton Jazz Festival in Moscow, Idaho. All the groups performed well and received good adjudications. The best performance was turned in by our senior jazz combo, who placed 5th out of the 18 groups in their category. The first ever Java and Jazz Night was also held in the Ritz and received rave reviews.

Early March saw many of our voice students take part in the Cowichan Valley Music Festival. Sarah Lane and Aurora Killam took top honors in numerous categories and were later invited to sing in the festival's highlights concert. Bastion City Mobile Recording also came on campus for day, and we spent thirteen grueling hours recording material for our compact disk. In mid-March the senior jazz band headed up to Parksville to participate in the Vancouver Island Jazz Festival. The relaxed, non-competitive atmosphere allowed the group to give one of its best festival performances.

April turned out to be the busiest month of the year, starting with the choir attending the West Coast Choir festival, held at Oak Bay High in Victoria. April 25th proved to be the highlight of the year for the department with the first annual Spring Showcase being held at the Cowichan Community Center. All the groups gave outstanding performances to an enthusiastic audience. In addition, the department's compact disk, Noted Progress, made its debut at that gathering. The senior jazz band, junior jazz band, and senior combo spent the next two days competing at the West Coast Jazz Festival, held at Malaspina College in Nanaimo. The senior combo gave another great performance and was officially invited to compete at Music Fest Canada in Toronto at the end of May.

In May, the senior combo and senior jazz band (based on an invitation for last year) traveled to Toronto to compete in MusicFest Canada. Despite the jet lag and the fact that neither group had played together for nearly a week (due to half term break), both groups took home bronze medals in their categories. There were numerous concerts and clinics that were outstanding. We also managed to find time for a quick trip to Canada's Wonderland, and a downtown jazz club.

Finally, June saw several groups take part in the last Fine Arts Concert of the year. Java and Jazz returned to the Ritz for another successful show. The senior jazz band, choir, string ensemble and several grade 12 students all made contributions to Closing Day Ceremonies on June 22nd.

Next year is looking even better, as many new musicians are set to join the program and contribute their talents to the school.

This year the competitive tennis programme has not only enjoyed success, but also undergone its share of trials. The senior team was composed of several returnees from last year who were joined by those who had moved up from junior tennis, and a few new students. After the initial tryouts the team was narrowed down to five starters and three or four spares for both the girls' and boys' squads. Our indoor tennis training gave us an advantage in our first match against Brentwood as we pulled out a close 6-5 victory. Unfortunately, we came out flat for the rematch and lost 9-2 the next week. We also had several exhibition matches against Balenas and SMU to ready us for the I.S.A's. The boys had a disappointing tournament and managed only a third place finish; the girls had a much tougher draw but still managed to come third.

The culmination of the season was at the provincial championships in June. We qualified at the Island Tournament and then went to Vancouver to try our luck against the best teams in the province. Through excellent preparation, we made our way to the semi-finals of the tournament, further than any team from the school has ever gone. We lost the semi-final match 6-5 to the number one seeded St. Georges/ Crofton House team and then again lost a very emotional match against Magee the next day to place us fifth in the tournament (Brentwood managed only a seventh place finish). This was a phenomenal placing for the team, and we certainly set the standard for future teams to aspire to. This includes an award being presented to Melissa Cheevers and Rachel Sennin for being the best girls' doubles team in the province. The coaching of Mr. Candelaria and Mr. Furbee was instrumental in our success throughout the season, and Mrs. Bridge was an excellent supporter and organiser. Our team can be remembered as one that had much character and spirit, and that is what propelled us to the heights that we achieved. Our ability to cope with injuries, such as Larry's arm in the provincials and Russ's little run in with a return of serve, was a true sign of our arrival as a tennis power, both on the island and in the province. The best of luck to the team next year. We started something this year; it's up to you to continue.

Large and in charge: Russ Calkins demonstrates his flawless backhand technique.

Recreational Tennis

Members of the Senior Recreational Tennis team gained a great deal from the sport this year. We played our best when the weather allowed us to, and we enjoyed exploring other sports on rainy days. The progress of our skills developing was incredible. We practised forehands, backhands, volleying, and slamming shots from high air with the aid of the ball machine. At the end of the term, we were prepared to participate the Rec Cup Singles Tournament. A member from the competitive team won the Girls' first place. Second place was taken by Raylene Mar, and the third place by Morna Yuen. As for the boys, David Cain was on a slim edge of winning the Rec Cup; yet Rizwan Moorji took the honour at the end of the day. This term would never have been such rewarding without our friendly coaches, Mr. Noble and Mrs. Bridge. They brought us a productive term and a memorable experience. On behalf of all tennis fans, I wish for better weather next year.

Momen's Rowing

As we reflect on this past season we remember being on the water at 6:00 a.m. with a group of women intent on a common goal. We had all the opportunities: a new coach, a new boathouse, a new beginning, and our two week training camp in San Diego over spring break. All of these things laid the base for our season. We returned as stronger athletes as a result of our coach, Mrs. Backer, and her determination and persistance. As a crew we faced the challange of competing at the Varsity level against the best junior crews in North America. We accepted the challenge, and at the B.C. Championships we placed third in the women's category, having some of our best performances ever.

The Junior Women had a young but energetic group of girls to work with. Most of them were new to rowing and were learning all of the basics. They decided to skip the Brentwood Regetta so that they could use the time to practice. They competed in all of the other regettas and produced some promising results.

Overall this season has been a very memorable one with lots of ups and downs. With the support of our coaches and captain, Emily Purtzki, it was well worth the extra effort.

Within each person lies an unfathomable potential—often overlooked for lack of faith in ourselves or for a fear of failure. The women varsity rowers showed faith in themselves and each other and were fearful of nothing this term. Without a gold medal in their pockets, they reached their individual potentials and their potential as a team.

I have had the great fortune of witnessing these profound achievements and I thank the girls for sharing their inexaustible energies and determination with each other and with me.

Men's Rowing

This year the rowing program has really expanded in involvement and participation. The program's full potential is far from being reached, but we have the resources at hand. This managed to cross many bounda- year's Varsity VIII has done ries. This year we moved into our new boat house, the Read Crewhouse. This new facility allows the rowing program more space for the shells and athletes. The new program has been a year of growth as we have managed to build up junior San Diego rowing tour, training involvement in this sport. The junior C Novice boys made great leaps with Mr. Morris and Mr. Kennedy's junior B boys received excellent results and became one of the top crews in B.C. Most importantly, they beat Brentwood consistently the success and the best of the luck whole season. The Senior crews to the program in the years to also had much success. With the follow. exception of Brentwood we have the top crews in our categories.

The junior Varsity has had inconsistent involvement, but Mr. McPherson has managed to produce some good results with exceptionly well. We have had consistant results behind Brentwood's heavy VIII. This year we placed sixth in Western North America. It has been the best heavy VIII in five years. The highlights have been our with the national team and the lightweights' performance at St. Catharine's. This year of rowing was a building year, and right now the future for Shawnigan rowing looks bright! I extend wishes for continued

"Hey, are you guys sponsored by Oakley?" The men sit on the water between pieces.

The early bird catches the worm: The women's Varsity VIII take to the water for an early morning row.

On March 19th thirty-three rowers and five coaches gathered at the Vancouver ferry terminal ready to embark on a long awaited trip to San Diego, California. The two varsity VIIIs, the men's junior varsity VIII and a women's development four were the crews touring. The crews were going to train harder than they ever had before and they were going to row better than they ever had in their lives. It was going to be a tiring yet exciting tour.

The journey down was long; we drove to SeaTac airport and from there flew to San Diego. Upon arrival we were all amazed at how nice the hotel was; the pool was unbelievable! We were all happy to call it home for the next two weeks. The San Diego rowing club, where we were training, was only a ten minute walk along the beach where we dodged rollerbladers, cyclists and joggers. Our days were spent on the waters of Mission Bay, which was rougher and more congested than our peaceful little lake at Shawnigan but, as our coaches duly noted, as athletes we became more focussed and more willing to be coached. All we had to think about was rowing; there were no duties, no essays to be done, and no external pressures. There was only sun and rowing.

Our days began either at 6:00 or 7:30 with a muffin and lots of orange juice to get us going. The day usually consisted of two training sessions, high intensity in the morning and technical in the afternoon. We had a day trip to Disneyland which was fun for all of us even though some of the line ups were rather scary. And some of us managed to do some shopping. The women's crew had lunch with Silken Laumann and also visited the U.S Olympic training centre (in the pouring rain!). We all attempted rollerblading along the beach at some point, and we were all fairly tanned upon departure.

Our improvement as crews was phenomenal, and the tour was brought to a close with the huge San Diego Crew Classic. It was the biggest regatta any of us had ever attended, with over three thousand athletes competing. There were some BIG crews! The men's varsity VIII managed to make it to the grand final in their competition, and the women and the junior varsity crew made it to the third finals. The tour was a great success because not only did we all have a great deal of fun but we are discovering now how much that extra training helped both in fitness levels and in the technical side of things. The San Diego Tour was a success and essential for the "rebirth" of Shawnigan's rowing programme.

Sailing

Sailing this term has been fantastic. Despite what Mr. Sarsfeild says, "the wind on the lake has often been enough to force the less confident sailors off the water." We have had three major regattas with three wins against some very stiff competition. At Maple Bay we took home a second in the Gold Fleet and first, second and third in the Silver Fleet. We sailed against Brentwood and St. George's in the ISA's and managed to squeeze a win from St. George's, "snatching victory from the jaws of defeat." The Roger's Cup has long eluded us in the past, but last year we managed to take it from Brentwood and after two days of racing in some less than ideal conditions, we brought it home again. Although five of the six racing team members will be graduating this year, we have a talented group of junior sailors and experienced grade elevens to continue our success next season. We hope that the graduating sailors can look back on these few months and remember some of the best sailing the school has produced. We believe that Mr. Grass and Mr. Sarsfield can look forward to many more great performances.

See! Sailing is fun! Shawn Kent and Sheldon May make this point clear.

Nice, rough day, guys! Enthusiasm filled the air when the team starts off.

Over spring break the 1st XV went on a tour Great Britain. The first day we had a practice at Eton school in England. At this school we had the opportunity to be coached by the Canadian Captain Gareth Rees. We then made our way up to Cowbridge to play one of the best schools in Wales and came out with a hard fought loss of 36-17. Also in Wales we visited Cardiff to watch Wales beat France. We then made our way to Dublin by boat and lost again but this time it was a lot closer with a score of 15-12. After Dublin it was off to Belfast where another close game resulted in a 17-12 loss. The tour arrived in Scotland next where we took part in a sevens tournament. This was held in Nairn. This was the most successful part of our tour rugby wise as we went undefeated with only one try scored against us in the entire tourny. We beat Robert-Gordons in the final of that tourny but lost to them the next day in our match 17-12. Our last stop of the tour was Edinborough. We went for a tour of Edinborough castle and also saw some old pictures of Mr. Robertson. Our game was against George Harriets and we lost 39-17. At the end of the tour we handed out awards: Jules Seamen for the tour M.V.P., Ryan Panton for the most improved player and Peter Houston for the best tourist. The whole tour would like to thank Mr. Patel and Mr. Samuel for making the tour so much fun and one we'll never forget. I'd also like to thank the team for being perfect representatives of Shawnigan on and off the field.

3rd Germ Rugby

Because of the number of weeks senior rugby played during the first term, the 1st XV was not eligible to take part in the provincial championships held in Vancouver. This resulted in only a few games for the firsts during the third term season. However the third term was very successful for the program because there were just enough players to form a 1st XV and a 2nd XV.

For most games, Shawnigan fielded either the 2nd XV or a team which consisted of some 1st XV players and some less experienced players. Such a combined team went to the Vanier Cup in Courtney. Sporting the new third-term amber jerseys (donated by Gareth Thomas's father), the team went undefeated, without giving up any points, and won the tourna-ment.

The firsts did get some real games, including a victory over Glenlyon-Norfolk and a very convincing win of 45-20 over the Province's 5th-ranked team, St. Micheals University School. The 2nd XV were also successful with a win against Glenlyon-Norfolk and two blow-outs over S.M.U. The only loss of the season came when the seconds played against Highlands, who eventually went on to win the AA provincial championships. A team made up of strictly grade eleven players also got a game in as an opener to the Canada-D.H.L. game. They played Vanier and won easily by sixty points. The third term was successful despite the 1st XV not getting a shot at the provincials. The potential for senior rugby to do well next year looks very promising.

Well done guys: Guthrie, Ryan and Pat casually walk back after a Shawnigan try.

Crazy legs: Steve Hale leaves the attemped tacklers in the dust as he runs in to score.

The expression says it all! Pat Knill looks dazed in the sun during a break in an exhausting game.

Girls' Rugby 1996...

The Shawnigan Lake "Iron Women" had an excellent season. Mr.Patel and Mr.Hall took on the challenge of coaching us, but with a strong base and great dedication from all the girls, our skills improved rapidly. We were all very focused on our goal: to become B.C. Champions. After winning the Island Championship against Cowichan High School, we were bound for Burnaby to win the B.C's.

(We were ready for anything after concurring those 600's.)

At the B.C. Championships, we got to know each other quite well, with Miss Napier leading sing-along and being up close and personal after every game. We had tough games to get us into the final, but because of our chemistry, dedication and support of every team member, we became the B.C. Champions of 1996!

WE ARE THE CHAMPIONS!

Thank you to Mr.Hall and Mr. Patel for being great coaches and believing in us, and thank you to Mr.Hyde-Lay for being our inspiration and Guardian Angel through it all.

I will miss you all . . .

-Amy Jellema

Golf

Throughout the year, the golf club has improved greatly in all aspects. The entire group of new players has learnt the basics of how to play the game of golf. They will improve greatly if they continue to play. The golf team of Tom Dutchak, Chris McIntyre, Adam Watchorn, Kent Carnogursky and myself went to the I.S.A. tournament at Cordorva Bay Golf Course. There was a strong showing by Tom Dutchak with the lowest score for our group with a solid 83. We placed 5th out of 6 in the tournament. I wish all the best to the golf team this year, and to Mr. Fraser who we are saying goodbye to as he leaves on a year's sabbatical. Thanks.

Soccer

This year's soccer team did extremely well compared to ones in the past. For once the Junior Boys' Soccer team had an above .500 success rate. There are quite a few talented players in Grade 10 and the next year's team will be even better with the Grade 9s having gained experience from this year.

Our first game of the season was against Ladysmith. We fought hard for a decisive 4-1 victory. The next game was against Francis Kelsey, which is one game we hope to forget, for we lost badly 5-1. After many practices and much coaching we had our next game against George Bonner, which we won quite easily 6-3. Under the worst conditions of the year we played Cowichan High School. The fields could have been mistaken for a swamp in which the ball could be barely kicked across the field, but we came out on top 7-1.

One of the best performances of the year was at the Ladysmith Tournament. Our first game was against Spencer High School from Victoria. They had some very skilled players, but they did not play as a team, and we did. We moved onto the host team of the tournament Ladysmith, and beat them quite handily 4-1. We found ourselves in the final against Vanier High from Courtney. We played the best game of our year to win 3-1. This is the first soccer tournament a Shawnigan team has won in 7 years.

I look forward to playing the rest of the season and I hope we can continue the success. I would also like to thank Mr. Williams for making this soccer team happen, because it almost didn't.

Copeman's

Memories of Copeman's: Mr. Hall and Mr. Patel dressed like the girls they really are; the Ninja, G. Smith; Grade 12 midnight raids; Mr. Hall's birthday crash; Guppy the sleepy monkey; Juet and the top dog. Checkoff and Daisy; Jules and his wives; Carl's 20th birthday; Steve's party; Larry knuckling James; Coops and his firechickens; Roger the Rebel; Wolk and the Remobile, Ross and bubbles; and Hawkins who still doesn't get it. Saul and the Copeman's franchise; Meatcleaver the bushpilot; Tsai and the WuTang Clan; Hummer and his tool box; tight five sevens; Gr. 10 top floor students;

Adam and Wilke, the Bobsy Twins; the Dukes; the paddle; Kennedy, the Groves' house girl; innocent Rehman; pre-Chapel house meetings.

This year has been filled with memories and good times to be remembered by all. We didn't win the cup but you can't win them all. Next year guys! If anything we owe a great debt of gratitude to our Duty Staff and especially to Mr. Hall for a wonderful year. Also to the Grade 12s for making things interesting and doing a great job running the house. I wish the house the best of luck in the future. Keep the Copeman's laughs always happening!

Groves'

The 1995-1996 year was a year of success for Groves' House. We started the year with a decisive conquering in the Round-the-Lake Relay, a definitive slaughter in the inter-house squash tournament, and academics forever on the rise.

With our diverse group of individuals, new faces and old, this year has been an exciting experience for all. Ms. Newns, our loving house director of Groves' since its transformation into a girls' house, was unable to be with us for the whole year, but she still was with us in spirit. We all united with the help of Mrs.Grass and Ms. Leeson to maintain our standing as "the best girls house on campus."

This house has had its rough times but we have overcome them and the good times shine through—like house breakfasts, pizza nights, sub runs, late night movies, house outings, and our overwhelming enthusiasm at pep rallies!

This year would not have been possible without the dedication of the grade twelves, the willing hands of the elevens during exam times, and our house moms - Mrs. Martin, Mrs. Grass, Ms. Leeson and Mrs. Kennedy. Thanks to everyone for sticking together and making this year truly memorable. Best of luck!

Kaye's

We were trying to think of one word to sum up Kaye's House this year and found it virtually impossible. We thought of smooth because there have been so few conflicts and problems, but that didn't seem to give the whole picture. "Spirit" came to mind for all the support and energy everyone put into the interhouse events, but that was still only one aspect of the house. Some of the words other people gave us were "warm," "charged," "unique," "mellow"—and while all of them fit, none could quite draw together all the different parts of Kaye's.

"Together." That was it. At the beginning of the year, forty-some girls came together into the house, bringing with them their different ideas, backgrounds and smiles. The result has been a very successful year—we have been a force to be reckoned with. Armed with our purple squishies, we have taken on everything that has come our way and come out on top. As grade 12's, we will always remember the spirit of Kaye's and take a piece of that wherever we go.

From the first raid on Ripley's to the very last one, Kaye's House has been united and strong. Thank you for a wonderful year. Never say die. I love you, man.

Lake's

The men of Lake's have endured yet another year, striving hard to work as a cohesive unit, both in the house and on the playing fields. We were greeted at the beginning of the year by the recently returned Mr. Candelaria with a great deal of enthusiasm. You might say that it was "out with the old and in with the Stew." Under his guidance the men of Lake's soon taught the thirteen new boys the ropes and leapt out to an early interhouse lead with convincing victories in both the Round-the-Lake Relay and Senior Rugby. Over the course of the year our dominance in interhouse sports was proven with further victories in basketball, squash and the cross country.

Along with our athleticism, under the supervision of our duty staff (Mr. Connolly, Mr. Abbott, Mr. Vissers, and Mr. Kennedy) we managed to maintain a second place standing in academics. We steadily improved throughout the course of the year and by the end we were neck-'n'-neck with Ripley's for first among the boys' houses.

This has been an incredible year for Lake's House. We have managed to solve the small problems that appeared in our way and pulled together as a house. For those of us graduating, there could not have been a better note to go out on, and for those returning next year, we've built a strong base: it's up to you to make the best of it.

Lonsdale's

This year, Lonsdale's house has strived to rebuild what was missing in the past years, true house spirit and unity. The year began when a group of returning students came back early to paint the railings and the trim of the house. It took time, organization and hard work to complete the job, but it had set a trend for what was to become of our house. The rest of the year developed in the same fashion. Interhouse rugby and volleyball exemplified Lonsdale's support and house spirit. Care and concern for the house was shown when the common room was rebuilt and three murals were painted. A new house symbol was created aswell as new checkered rugby jerseys. Probably the most fun the house had was at the end of the year when we went to play paint-ball in Duncan. All of these things brought the house together to form a bond which can only get stronger in the years to come. This year's men of Lonsdale's proved that our house can be number one. Good luck next year, boyz, and keep the pride alive!

Ripley's

Another great year has passed in Ripley's House. We placed well in the Round the Lake Relay destroying the "last place curse" which has plagued the house in the past. Throughout the year Ripley's demonstrated tenacity and good sportmanship as we placed among the top of numerous inter-house competitions. The house did very well at Ski Week and amazed spectaors who bore witness to our snow boarding capabilities. Ripley's also achieved some environmental prestiges as winner of the Interhouse recycling competition.

As for our academics, Ripley's had the strongest academic showing out of all the guy's houses on a number of assessments. Overall, the house grouped together well and created a strong bond. The year ended strongly with a barbeque party which was undoubtably enjoyed by all. Best of luck to the Ripley's Grads of 1996-1997. May you all enjoy your summer.

School

This past year School House has been a place of departures and arrivals. The first new addition to School house was Mr. and Mrs. Bridge's beloved puppy, Maggie. Then, in late November, we welcomed two Australian exchange students, Amy and Lauren, whom Jocelyn and Chantelle would later depart to join Down Under.

Amidst the comings and goings, School House still had time for cake fights, DQ runs, in-house breakies, raids, high achievements and lots of other cool things that we can't tell you about. The positive energy and close knit feeling of School House remains. As departing grade twelves we are confident that we will take with us unique memories and will leave behind a group of girls ready to conquer the world; or at least Kaye's House.

Pr. House

For three years Jr. House has been a grade 8 boys' house. The house prefects this year were Richard Vanstone and Ricky McCourt, who helped out around the house and made sure we didn't get into trouble. Our House Director, Mr. Austin, has been a great inspiration for Jr. House. He treats us all with respect and looks after us well.

This year has been the best because it is the last year for the boys. Next year the house will be called Renfrew House and will be a girls' house.

The three-year era of Junior House being a boys' house is now over. It's been a great house and has allowed us to adjust to the school on our own terms.

All of us have had fun in the house this year because we have been able to enjoy the fun and great atmosphere that the house has provided. Many thanks to Mr. and Mrs. Austen, and to Ricky and Richard, for making this such a great year.
